Clouds of Conflict Evaporate Swiftly as Yugoslavia and Hungary Peacefully.

LAVAL IS LEADER IN CONCILIATION

Disapproval of Terrorism Is Contained in Convention To Be Adopted by League Council.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—(P)—War threats in central Europe dissipated tonight, when Yugoslavia and Hungary bowed to the League of Nations, whose council unanimously adopted a resolution "deploring" the crimes at Marseille.

The action of the two opposing nations in accepting the resolution was viewed as a great League victory in the interests of peace, since central Europe had been threatened by the flames of war as a direct result of the assassination October 9 of the Yugoslav king, Alexander.

Hungary, in diplomatic terms, is requested to take "punitive action against any authorities whose culpabilities have been established" and "communicate to the council the measures which it takes to this effect."

This action was sought by Yugoslavia.

Until the very last, the diplomats' classification of city and Fulton county relief funds was approved unanimously Monday afternoon at a special session of general council, and Mayor James L. Key called the newly created commission into session at 10 o'clock this morning at his office for organization.

The commission will select a direction for the work, and will give him complete authority to administer relief activities. He will be answerable only to the commission for his actions.

Politics will be eliminated as fully as it is possible to outlaw politics in any public administration, under the program.

Members of the commission, designated in the resolution, which county is a serious county.

This action was sought by Yugoslavia.

Until the very last, the diplomats interest in the Yugoslav-Hungarian dispute was breathlessly maintained.

Conciliation Triumph.

The Hungarian government got the final draft of the resolution for settlement of the issue by telephone late tonight. The council then suspended its session until Budapest deliberated.

Relief was expressed on all sides when the Hungarian representative received his urgent instructions:

"Yote for the resolution."

The diplomats said the resolution indicates a distinct triumph for conciliation in League councils and proves that statesmen may make concessions to the League when they might find it difficult to make them directly to governments. In this instance, Yugoslavia was seen as getting adequate satisfaction, while Hungary's honor remains unsullied.

How about the young'uns, here in Atlanta, who didn't have any hot coffee to drink or good oatmeal and wheat cakes to eat? Who, like as not, didn't get any hot breakfast at all, this morning.

Clothes, Shoes Insufficient.

Who haven't dry shoes or sufficient clothing to permit them to go to school. Or, if they do fight the cold to get to the classroom, shiver with bitter chill as the wind stings them through clothes worn thin by year 'round wear.

There are ten families in Atlanta right now who are in just such a state. Ten families of good people who are just the victims of misfortune, or bad luck for which they are not responsible. proposal for a federal agency to regulate all civil aviation. The conclusions of the body have not been made public.

While the Roosevelt commission discussion proceeded, another group, the National Air Frontier Defense Association, was listening to a disagreement between army officers over what constitutes adequate air defense.

Brigadier General Charles E. Kilbourne, assistant chief of staff, war plans division, told the association that an army air force of 2,320 planes would adequately protect the nation. He said Major General James E. Fechet, former army air chief, did not represent the war department's official view when he declared 4,500 gwere needed.

After Kilbourne and Fechet had left the meeting, Major F. Bradley, of the war plans division of the general staff, explained 2,320 planes were considered sufficient because it was unlikely any great number of sections of the country would be attacked simultaneously.

Howell, on leaving the White House after the meeting with the president said: "We simply wanted to give him our views and to get his."

Recommendations of the commission Although some differences of opiniou had developed, these were over "details" and had been ironed out, he said.

That the activities of the proposed commission should be permanent, and that it should take over present commerce department flying functions, is reported reliably to have been already decided by the commission.

Members of the commission declined to disclose the president's position on the membership of the proposed agency or whether it should take over air mail rate making.

The charity ball to be given Thursday night. December 20. promises to be one of the gayest affairs of the year, says Robert Garner, chairman. He's making preparations to turn the hall into one of the most colorful fun-parties ever held, with many prominent society folk taking part.

The Big Brothers radio program was a huge success last night and a number of persons volunteered to help the worthy campaign of The Constitution and the Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion. Another interesting musical entertainment will be given by the Big Brothers again Friday night over WGST.

Among the newcomers to the Big Brothers Monday was Mrs. Jo Dolan, whose husband. Captain Mike Dolan is exhibiting his gigantic whale at Pryor and Wall streets. Captain Dolan gave the campaign leaders more than $100 Saturday and Sunday, a sum representing one-tenth of the show's income. Captain and Mrs. Dolan are working hard for the charitable drive which will make so many Atlantans happier Christmas.

With only a few days left before the sale next Sunday of the Big Brother papers, generous Atlantans must hurry to join in. Fill out the accompanying coupon and send it to headquarters in the Healey building right now.

Think back through all the years you have been buying ready-to-eat cereals. Have you ever once in all that time been disappointed in a Kellogg product?

Possibly you have never tried Kellogg's Corn Flakes, but surely you have enjoyed some of the other Kellogg Cereals. You can rely on finding the same superiority in the Corn Flakes that bear our name.

They are sold with this personal quarantee: "If you are not more than satisfied, return the empty red and-green package and we will refund your money."

We made the original Corn Flakes 28 years ago, and their delicious flavor and crispness have kept them growing steadily in popularity. Kellogg's Corn Flakes have won their place as the world's largest-selling ready-to-eat cereal be-cause their goodness has never been successfully copied.

Don't accept imitations. Give your family the best. Ask your grocer for Kellogg's Corn Flakes.

'Uncle Remus' Paid Tribute At Annual Birthday Meeting

Prominent figures among those gathered Monday at the Atlanta Woman's Club for luncheon honoring the 86th birthday of Joel Chandler Harris and the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association. They are, seated, Mrs. A. McD. Wilson (left), founder of the association, and Mrs. H. G. Hastings, vice president; standing, Lucien Harris (left), son of Joel Chandler Harris, and Dr. M. L. Commemorating the 86th birthday of Joel Chandler Harris, the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association, and the 79th birthday of Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, founder of the association, the members of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association gathered for luncheon Monday at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Dr. Thomas H. English, of Emory University, told of the work being done at Emory, with the help of Charles Johnston, recent graduate of Emory, in editing for publication an annotated check list of the Joel Chandler Harris manuscripts in the Emory University collection. The check list will describe all of the literary manuscripts of the Emory Collection, Dr. English explained, including manuscripts both published and unpublished. The check list, a result of seven years work, will be ready for release not later than June, 1935. Dr. English said.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, presided at the luncheon and introduced each of the speakers. Mrs. H. G. Hastings was in charge of general arrangements for the luncheon.

"Fifty-five thousand persons have visited the Wren's Nest during the 25 years the Uncle Remus Memorial Association has had it in charge," Mrs. Edwin Camp, and Stewart Harris, grandson of Joel Chandler Harris. ### county of simple larceny and sen-tenced to one year. The men, according to Sheriff Law-rence, first cut their way out of a stockade and then sawed the bars on an outer window of the cage. Sylvia Lent, Young and Girlish, Is From Family of Musicians

By MOZELLE HORTON. When you see Sylvia Lent come on the stage for her concert at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium tonight I imagine you will be just as surprised as I was to find her such a young slip of a girl and already recognized as the most outstanding woman violinist of America. Miss Lent is visiting her friend, Mrs. H. R. Bates, at her home at 1700 Pelham road, and it was there that I talked to this charming young artist Monday morn-charming young artist Monday morning, interrupting a rehearsal she was having with Ruby Chalmers, Atlanta's eminent planist and accompanist, who will play her accompaniments tonight. Miss Lent has a fascinating personality. She is unassuming and modest about her accomplishments. Her frank and naive manner was unusual for one of her fame.

Miss Lent comes to Atlanta for her concert, a presentation of the Atlanta Music Club, of which Mrs. Harold McKenzie is president, after a series of concerts which took her to Petersburg, Va., Milwaukee and an appearance with the symphony orchestra of Colorado Springs. After her Atlanta concert she will give a concert at Milledgeville before returning east for a concert tour.

ledgeville before returning east for a concert tour.

Miss Lent comes from a family of fine musicians. Her father was a noted cellist, composer and violin teacher, and her mother is an accomplished planist and a successful teacher. Miss Lent has been entirely American trained, her father being one of her teachers. She received a major part of her training under Leopold Auer.

Miss Lent, who has never married, was born in Washington, D. C., and still makes her home in the capital city. She has one sister who is a noted painter and two brothers, one business manager of a leading eastern news-Paper, and the other an engineer. She has a little four-month-old nephew whom she adores, in fact, he seems to be her "heart" at the moment.

Miss Lent has never done anything but concertize until last week, when she was persuaded to give a talented child a lesson. It was amusing to hear her tell of this first lesson. She said she was more nervous than she ever had been at any concert.

Miss Lent's "hobby" is pets. She is fond of all kinds of animals. Her favorite sport is horseback riding, and second is driving a car.

The woman, according to testimony offered, was guilty of perpetrating a hoax in the collection of damages from the Georgia Power Company. It was charged that in presenting claims for injuries received in accidents which never took place, according to testimony offered, she gave the name of Cora L. Nash, reputable negro relief worker.

Released on $2,000 bond after she was indicted, the woman fled to Chicago, where she was found and was returned to Atlanta to stand trial.

Four Men Bound Over On Narcotic Charges

Four men arrested in Atlanta during the federal nation-wide narcotic drive Friday night and Saturday were bound over to the United States grand jury Monday, and eight others, also taken into custody during the Atlanta raids, were ordered held under temporary bonds of $1,000 each by Uniter States Commissioner E. S. Griffith.

James G. "Rabbit" Wilson, of North Boulevard; Charlie Nash, of White-hall street; Carlos Renfroe, living on Simpson street, and Horace O. Dent. of a Brotherton street address, were the four defendants heard Monday. Commissioner Griffith ordered them held under $2,000 bonds after federal officers, including a special undercover agent, had testified to buying heroin officers, including a special undercover agent, had testified to buying heroin and morphine from all four. Dix Turns Whimsical

Steel-jawed Richard Dix plays at whimsy in "His Greatest Gamble," the film at the Capitol theater. With him are Bruce Cabot, Dorothy Wilson and Erin O'Brien-Moore, all enacting roles splendidly in a strange triangle—parents and daughter. On the stage is Owen Bennet's "Vanities of 1985," a creditable show featuring Bob Conn, the dancing dandy of Al G. Fields' fame. His dialog, new to these ears, kept the house tittering.

The film falls into the "problem" category. It is a struggle between two divorced parents over the delicate task of cultivating their daughter's personality. The man is gay, irresponsible and loves to live and do silly things. His wife is a hard conventional woman. She keeps control of their child, crushing her spirit and hypnotizing her into illness. Dix, earlier confined to a French prison, escapes to save his daughter and to make her laugh. Typical line, by Dix: "Wouldn't it be a dreary world if one knew where one's next meal was coming from?"

The stage show is prettily done and fastly paced. The stars include Henri Neiser, the frog man; Mary Druggan, personality girl; Mack and Mack, whirlwind dancers; the Ginger Sisters, two bundles of loveliness; the Six Vanity Girls and others. Ralph Brice and his augmented Rhythm Kings' band furnish the music.

A travelogue, about Java, a new Popeye cartoen, and a special newsrel of the wedding of Prince George and Princess Mariana are shown.

Mussolini Convenes 'Suicide' Assembly

ROME, Dec. 10.—(4?)—Premier Mussolini opened the winter session of his "suicide" chamber today, just one month after inaugurating the corporative state organs which are expected to supplant it. Il Duce did not speak. He merely received the plaudits of the chamber during the formal opening.

not speak. He merely received the plaudits of the chamber during the formal opening.

Four hundred deputies, wearing black shirts and shouting their loyalty to the regime, met under his direction to attack a stack of measures already put into force by decree but which now require legal sanction.

Many of these same deputies are also members of the corporate institution. Even those that are not are pledged to approve any and every measure. Il Duce may submit to sheer down the chamber's power and add to that of the new organ.

Little by little the government intends to extend this process until, in Mussolini's own words, "there will be small reason for the chamber's further existence." That phrase, pronounced before the present chamber was selected, led to its popular dubbing as the "suicide" chamber.

Neuritis sufferers are certainly happy over their discovery of Nurito. Now they have found a prescription that quickly relieves the agonizing pain of rheumatisn, sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia or neuritis and torturing muscular aches and pains. This formula, developed by an eminent specialist—works like a charm, fast and powerful, but harmless, no opiates or narcotics. By all means make a trial of this prescription that eases the pain and makes sufferers grateful. If Nurito doesn't relieve the worst pain with two or three does, and Texas are represented.

Mr. Kircher Monday discussed the foresters' job under the New Deal and public relations, and C. E. Evans. assistant regional forester, outlined the co-ordination of state's relations and national forest work. Co-ordination of research and national forest work was the subject of a joint talk by E. WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—A "swell job" was Secretary Morgenthau's commendation today to the treasury's narcotic bureau which has put 791 illicit narcotic handlers behind bars in a nation-wide sweep still functioning at top speed.

"I am very much pleased." Morgenthau said shortly after Harry J. Anslinger, narcotics chieftain, predicted convictions of those arrested would average 05 per cent.

Anslinger diaclosed that "more than half those picked up have criminal records of all kinds, but as a rule are not definitely linked with the liquor traffic."

At the development board meeting Jackson Matthews, secretary of the board, outlined a four-point development program in agricultural, industrial. recreational and residential fields.

Governor-elect Graves insisted that the board should put industrial and agricultural development ahead of that in recreational lines. He urged that the board not be too narrow or sectional in activity.

He also suggested that the board be composed of the same states which are asked to participate in the freight rate reduction campaign. The board now embraces the states of Virginia. North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida.

Both Graves and Talmadge asked that the development board make the freight rate question their first to act upon.

By the time the pre-holiday buyof goods of all kinds will be practically exhausted, and the influence of the boom in retail sales will then be extended to wholesale and manufacturing interests.

Faced with this bright prospect, more than a hundred of the outstanding leaders of finance, industry and commerce will meet next Monday to lay plans to make permanent the beneficial effects of the sweeping tide of business that has arisen during the holiday season.

With the evidence that the people of the country are again in a buying mood, and the further assurance of increased normalcy and stability to be found in the conservative drift in the federal recovery program, the business leaders of the country are now for the first time able to plan with confidence based on actual and healthful conditions.

With the full power of the business of the country placed behind the government's efforts at rehabilitation, the coming year should see a further advance on a sound and permanent basis, toward prosperous conditions in every phase of our economic system.

The master of the Mary Kenney said he was reluctant to order his crew to abandon ship. Officials here believe he was trying to jockey the guards into aiding him so he might alip away and land his cargo.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

ULTIMATUM WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.-The secret of diplo

acy is not to say what you mean but to let the other fellow know what you mean without saying it.

What our ambassador at large, Norman Davis, meant without saying it, in his speech at London last week, was that this government is prepared to enter a naval race in the Pacific whenever Japan tries to build up beyond the five-to-three relationship be-tween our navy and hers. The speech was in effect an indirect Spokesmen for the international branch of the New Deal made sure that everyone understood it that way. Before Davis had fin-ished speaking in London, the proper interpretation was passed around in official stage whispers here.

What they were secretly aiming at was the meeting of the privy council in Tokyo. That council is a group of elder statesmen, sometimes accurately described as old mossbacks, who advise the emperor. They were just getting ready to meet to advise

No one had any hope that these old boys would recommend a change in Japanese policy. But it was thought that strong words might have some moderating effect on them. That is the only reason Davis told the Japanese the same things in private many times at London. They wouldn't believe him. Also, they seem to have an idea that our congress will revolt one of these days against big navy expenditures. While Mr. Davis delivered the speech, he was not the sole author of it. Secretary Hull really inspired it. The state department spent three days working on it. So many messages were sent back and forth that you might say accurately that the speech was drafted

OFFSET A contributing reason for the speech was the fact that our officials were worried about current Japanese propaganda in this country. Ambassador Salto's recent speech here, the articles published here under the name of former Premier of Japan, and the general propaganda out of Tokyo made it appear that Japan's security was menaced by the American and British The propaganda apparently fooled two United States senators

TECHNIQUE A complete explanation of the slaughter in Russia may be a long time coming. Those on the inside of Russian affairs here say that the red government discovered recently quite a serious secret movement instituted by a foreign gangster element

They liken the execution technique to the method employed by the justice department here in the Dillinger case and to similar political purgings by central European powers. They insist that the plotters were not Russians.

If that is the true story, it represents the growth in popularity of primitive political methods throughout continental Europe. The republicans here may be thankful that is one method the democrats have not tried yet.

A Fondness for Fine Horses Doesn't Indicate Love for a Balky One -By Robert Quillen-

Amos was a man who walked with God. That is doubtless a poetic way of saying that he lived the kind of life d made himself the kind of man that God approved. Has it ever occurred to you to wonder what kind of man pleases God? If a man raises horses or cattle, he likes best the specimens that ssess in the highest degree the good qualities of their breed.

What are the good qualities of man? Opinions may differ, but the mmon approval of mankind is won by such qualities as courage, fortitude, honesty, loyalty, compassion, dignity, justice, generosity, courtesy, and the all-comprehensive virtue called manliness.

Why doubt that these qualities in man are approved by the Creator? All religions teach that sin offends God. Isn't it reasonable to suppose that other things unbecoming to man displeases Him also? A parent is displeased by a timid child and shamed by a craven one. Could God approve the coward and the weakling?

If men, whose standards are low, despise the cheat, the pretender the bully and the liar, is it possible that God admires them? For that matter, is mere goodness the whole of excellence?

Men cannot admire one of their fellows who is ethically above re-oach and yet bankrupt of all other manly qualities.

They can neither admire nor love the coldly selfish and solemnly righteous individual who is incapable of pity or generosity. Is God's taste less exacting?

You can't imagine an intelligent man saying: "I have degraded myself in the eyes of men. I was weak and cowardly and ignoble. But wasn't a sin, so God will think no less of me."

An honest man who walks with God may often say, "I am sorry.
That was unworthy, Father, and I am ashamed." But surely no man has God's approval when he isn't worthy of his own.

The letter mentioning the state department was written in 1928 by F. J. Monaghan, of Remington. In the case of a transaction in Santo Domingo, he said he had visited the state department and been told that while it was willing to overlook "small graft" this was going "too far."

The conflict arising out of Yugoslavia's charges that Hungary harbored the terrorists who killed her king broadened today into disputes over racial origins resulting from impassioned speeches made by the foreign ministers of the Little Entente nations.

Resents Reflection.

Finally he came back and made a speech before the council:

"Remarks were made here as to the origin of the peoples," he said solemnly. "I have the honor to represent a people of Asiatic origin, and I hope no one intends to cast a reflection upon us."

Titulescu laughed, the council members all laughed, and the public attending the exciting meeting half laughed and half cheered. The president had to threaten to clear the hall.

The revisionist issue continued to be delicate. Hungary, with Italy's support, insists upon revision of postwar treaties which parceled out some of her territory, and the Little Entents of war over the world's council tables, common sense appeared tonight to be winning out.

Atlanta Solicitor Wants Stat utes to Deal With 'Menace' in Formative Stages.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—
John A. Boykin, solicitor-general of Fulton county, Georgia, said today there was a glaring need for legal means to strike at communism in the formative stage wherever it appears in America.

Attending the national crime conference here, the Georgian reported
"very favorable response" to his campaign in the south for uniform laws to combat communistic activities.

"Anybody who knows anything about communism," said Boykin.
"knows you can't wait until they are well organized before striking. We need laws permitting us to take action when agitation first appears."
Georgia has dealt severely of late with accused "red" agitators, but the solicitor said even stronger law was needed in his own state.

Turning to law enforcement, with which the conference is concerning itself chiefly, Boykin said there was a crying necessity for young men trained in crime detection. He proposed that attention be given to co-operation among national, state and local authorities.

In his address Cummings said:

"We must have a great national scientific and educational center for work in this field.

"Whether this should be called an institute of criminology or a federal school for training in law administration; whether it should include at its inception a degree-granting academy for those who may be selected and training for professional careers; whether it should begin with the coordination of already existing units of instruction and research and develop gradually—these are less important questions than that we should declare ourselves clearly upon the underlying proposition, that there is need for training and research of this type and that it can be done."

Stimson, who first became a public prosecutor 28 years ago, in criticising sentimentalism over crime, said:

"Such an attitude strikes at the root of punishment and removes to a yery large degree a determined influence against crime. It tends to exalt the criminal and make him pose as a hero instead of the abnormal creature that he is.

foundations of our agricultural, industrial and financial structures, and releasing and directing the vital forces that make for a healthy national life. As a component part of the large objective we include our constant struggle to safeguard ourselves against the attacks of the lawless and the criminal elements of our population.

Relentiessly and without compromise the department of justice has moved forward in its major offensive against these forces. With increasing effectiveness, state and local agencies are directing their efforts toward the achievement of law enforcement; and with them, in more marked degree than ever before, the federal government has worked toward the common objective,

It is a privilege to pay tribute to the men and women who, in many capacities, official and otherwise, have contributed to our growing success. To a much greater extent than is generally realized our law enforcement officers throughout the country have rendered devoted, conscientious and effective service, often under exasperating and hazardous circumstances.

Their effectiveness has, unfortunately, been impaired because of inadequate organisation, unscientific administration and lack of public support and understanding. In many instances, we may as well frankly admit bandits have been better equipped and better organized than have the officials who are supposed to keep them in check. This is particularly true because of the lack of co-ordination between local agencies within the states.

PROBLEM OF CRIME IS INCREASING ONE.

It is important, too, that we recognize clearly the increasing scope and complexity of the problem of criminal law administration. Undoubtedly there are unfortunate aspects of our national life which seriously threaten the American home; increase the danger of juvenile delinquency and multiply offenses against the good order of society.

The regulation of the illicit traffic interstate character of offenses attributable to the roving criminal have presented national problems against which primitive forms of law enforcement are relatively powerless.

stockholder in the Boston Braves, to use his ball park evenings this summer for dox racing.

OPPOSED TO IDEA.

Not only the National league but almost all organized baseball is opposed to the union of these two sports, and the solution seems to be for Fuchs to rent Fenway park, home of the American league Boston Red Sox for the Braves' home games, and lease Braves' field to a separate corporation for the puppy gallopers.

The National league, too, will install Ford C. Frick, former newspaperman, as president, succeeding John A. Heydler, discuss aynthetic doubleheaders, radio broadcasting of games, and similar subjects pored over often in the past.

The American league, with President William Harridge in the chair, will go deeply into the subject of allowing post-season barnstorming tours, in one of which Jimmie Foxx suffered a brain concussion this fall, and bonus clauses in player contracts.

The future of Babe Ruth, barnstorming in the orient, is certain to come up unofficially, if not officially, and the league must decide which city will stage 1935's all-star game, with Cleveland the probable choice.

The advisability of inter-league games during spring training is an annual topic, and the subject of synthetic doubleheaders likewise interests the American league moguls. About 19 of these were manufactured in the circuit last summer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(P)—Baseball's managers and club owners gathered in New York's hotel lobbies today, tossed out the first broken arch, and officially inaugurated the annual major league meetings in strictly normal fashion—doing absolutely nothing.

The formal conclaves will not start until tomorrow when the National league magnates gather at the Waldorf-Astoria and the American league owners sit in judgment on the year at the Commodore. They will do the same Wednesday. Then they will meet together at the 1934 campaign, the attendance figures, and things such as that while the major news develops on the bone-breaking tile floors of the lobbies.

Actually there is little of momentous interest facing the magnates, and little that is controversial ever is alred for the public anyway. There are many thousands who still re-call the savage charge and the snarl of the killer that belong to Jack Dempsey above all other fighters. A newer generation, look-ing at this picture, can understand today why there is no one to take his place. In this melodramatic snapshot, Dempsey is surging upon the elusive Tommy Gibbons at Shelby, over 10 years ago, in a desperate effort to land a finishing punch. But that sharp left that Gibbons wielded was just enough to keep the Tiger Man off balance a good part of the fight. The longevity of playing service, such as that of Grange and Wykoff, is remarkable. It proves that pro football is not such a wear and tear on the muscles as one is wont to imagine. For one thing, there is little of the hard scrimmaging which takes such toll of college players. The pro stars already know how to block and tackle when they report. All they need learn is the signals and plays and they are not complex of multi-tuinous. The pros have deception, but most of their stuff is based on power.

GATE-WAY TO JOBS.

But those days are gone forever for the player who earns a national or even a sectional reputation as a college player. The gates of employment, or at least several years of it. lead to the professional gridiron.

And the newapaper clippings which the coach at Old Siwash smiffed at so scornfully on that fall day are coming in quite handly, also. They are not only helpful in getting a job with some professional promoter or coach, but the publicity men for the pro teams are using them to good advantage in research for exploiting the various stars.

For example, one frequently runs across such as this in the New York and Chicago papers.

Holcombe Ward, Chairman, Has High Regard for 'Bitsy.'

By Jack Troy.

Atlanta's tennis bantamweight, Bryan Grant, is to be given a chance to toss a few preliminary punches for the Davis cup wars next summer, The Constitution has been reliably in-

Then, if the Davis cup committee and the team coach, feel that the punches carry enough steam on grass, Grant will be awarded a place on the It all has to do with an invitation to practice with the team candidates, an invitation that probably will be forthcoming after a meeting of the cup committee following the Christmas holidays. Then the committee will make plans for the 1935 team.

WARD LIKES HIM.

WARD LIKES HIM.

Holcombe Ward, chairman of the stiff-shirt-fronts, otherwise known as the Davis cup committee, thinks highly of Grant's game on clay. And if the mighty midget can show the committee a thing or two on grass, his selection is assured.

The Davis cup committee and the coach, too, have no idea what Grant could do on grass if given a chance to apply himself. Because he has never been invited to the practices.

A southern member of the committee informed the writer last summer that two of the chief objections the committee had atressed in regard to Grant was that he fell too frequently and that, in the course of sliding around on a court, his clothes being rather soiled.

was that he fell too frequently and that, in the course of sliding around on a court, his clothes being rather soiled.

THEIR IDEA.

It doesn't seem logical that dress would have a great deal to do with a player's selection. But that's the Davis cup committee's idea. And, if you will follow the doings of the dear old U. S. L. T. A. you will find they have some nifties, in the way of ideas. Grant's all for a chance to play. He is engaged in business with an insurance firm here, but he is sure he could get time off to try for the team. Grant will play in the annual Misami Biltmore tennis tournament, opening tournament of the season, on January 6. This event draws leading stars of the nation.

Then, too, there is a chance that Bryan will play in the New Orleans mid-winter tournament on December 28. He definitely will defend his national clay courts title.

TO CONSERVE STRENGTH.

The Atlanta star, winner of many important clay court tournaments, will not take in the tournaments as they come, however. He will continue in business. He is doing well with a local insurance firm.

Last year he was overtennised when the grass court tournaments began. During the year, however, he defeated Les Stoelen, twice; Frank X. Shields, No. 1 ranking player, and George Lott.

It is quite possible that Grant would be considered for a doubles position on the cup team, since Lott and Stoefen, the United States and Davis cup champions, have turned professional. Grant is a fine doubles player.

Since it is not at all sure that Frank Shields will find time to practice for the team this year there is a chance, too, that Grant may be asked to concentrate on singles.

A CHANCE.

A chance is all the midget fireball

And Grant plays the continental style of game more closely than other Americans. He keeps the ball in play, waiting for the other fellow to make the errors.

It has been pointed out that the American players chief fault in other years was their smashing style of attack.

Ward Believes Grant Will Play.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(A)—Holcombe Ward, chairman of the Davis cup committee charged with selection of the 1934 international tennis team, today said no plans had been made yet for next summer's campaign.

Although it is probable the present committee and Ward will be reappointed after the annual convention in February, they do not intending in February. tion in February, they do not intend to go ahead with any definite plans ward said he planned to call his present committee together "sometime after Christmas" to discuss a tentaafter Christmas" to discuss a tentative program.

"We don't know yet whether we'll have a training camp or not." Ward said, "and we have not discussed players. I think Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, is a probable selection, at least for the tryouts, but that is only my own opinion.

"We won't know just how to proceed until we find out who we are drawing against in the American zone competition. If it is Mexico we probably will play in Mexico City, in which case we would not hold a spring camp."

American owners are agreed that it would be silly to permit the New York Yankees' slugging outfielder, the most valuable individual asset in the circuit, to seek other fields if it is possible to keep him. But to keep him one of the American clubs must offer him a job as manager.

Ruth, touring the orient with a barastorming team, said he would like a managerial job, and his owner. Colonel Jacob Ruppert, repeated to the United Press tonight that he will release the Babe, without payment to any club that will make him pilot. Ruppert emphasized, however, that he would not permit him to become a regular player with any other club. William Harridge, of Chicago, president of the American league, said the Ruth question was virtually certain to come up at tomorrow's meeting. He did not know who would start the discussion or what the procedure would be. Such a question never has been brought up before. He said all owners in the American circuit appreciated fully what a blessing Ruth had been to baseball and were hopeful that he would remain with them. Ruth is comparatively wealthy, but haseball is his life, and he would like to remain with the game.

CAN A HORSE COME BACK?

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—It has been written in the records of the human (at times) race that "they don't come back."

This may apply to a champion after a defeat or a long layoff from the active marts of competition, as muscles that once were elastic lose their spring, or timing no longer follows the split-second hand of form.

This adage may apply to a human being—but what about a horse? One of my recent traveling companions across the continent was a pretty fair traveler in his own right by the name of Twenty Grand.

But Twenty Grand hasn't run a race since 1932. He is now warming up around the Santa Anita battlefield to take a shot at Cayalcade, Equipoise, Mate and other good ones for the $100,000 show that takes place at Santa Anita on February 23.

The message from Twenty Grand's eyes seems to be this: "Pil be there giving somebody a battle."

Fumbled Ball Is 'Free' In New Pro Grid Rule

Pros Make Change To Add Thrills for Spectators and To Lure Crowds.

By Ralph McGill.

Pro football's thinkers went into session yesterday and came forth with some rule changes, calculated to speed up the game.

Maybe the college thinkers should have a try at them, although there appears no great need for changes. Good football attracts, no matter what the rules.

And they have the ball down at the point from whence it was thrown on all incomplete passes instead of bringing the ball back to where it was put in play. It now goes back to the point from where the play started.

On a fourth down incomplete pass or a second incomplete toss into the end zone, the pros will bring the ball back to the point from which it, was thrown from within the 20-yard line. The ball will be brought in 15 yards when out-of-bounds instead of 10.

These rules mean little or no change

Frank Thomas Missed a Train And Saved His Grid Career

By William Weekes,

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP)—If Frank Thomas, Alabama's head football coach, hadn't missed a train one December Sunday back in 1921, he probably wouldn't be preparing the Crimson Tide for Rose Bowl war fare against Stanford New Year's Day.

Thomas, Notre Dame's quarterback in 1921 and 1922, was one of a group of Irish gridiron warriors recruited by Carlinville, Ill., interests to become a member of its semi-pro team to battle its arch-rival, Taylor-ville, Ill., which they learned in advance had loaded up with University of Illinois players for the crucial game.

Thomas, however, missed the train?

to accomplish great things in coaching.

"Frank was the most serious fellow about his football I've ever seen. When he went to Notre Dame from East Chicago. Ind., he was aiming at a major league coaching job. He had the Chattanooga job about nine months before he finished school. He was not an exceptional player. He was a little slow. But, there was nothing wrong with his head.

"He followed 'Rock' around talking football all the time. He copied the diagram of every play Rockne gave us. He studied the scouts' reports and kept notes on everything. He even interviewed members of our squad, asking ends quastions, quissing linemen on their observations, and discussing every phase of the game with the backs. I think everything he ever saw or heard about football went into his notebooks.

Thomas, however, missed the trainfor Taylorville, ten other Notre Dame players didn't miss it, and played in the game. The story of the "ringers" leaked out and resulted in the disqualification of the ten Irish stars, and seven Illinois men from further intercollegiate competition.

Thus, Thomas finished his career at Notre Dame, went on to coach at the University of Georgia and Chattanooga and finally succeeded Wallace Wade as head man at Alabama.

That Thomas has become one of the nation's outstanding football coaches is no surprise to Dr. John H. Mohardt, of Chicago, who as John ny Mohardt, was an All-American halfback at Notre Dame in 1921 and who recalled the train-missing incident. In fact, Mohardt, now that he thinks about it, expected Thomas to accomplish great things in coaching.

"Frank was the most serious fel-

EXISTENCE IN U.S. OF 'ICE - AGE MAN' WIDELY ACCEPTED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 .- (P)-"Ice-age man," hunting the fearsome mammoth or hairy elephant and other mammoth or hairy elephant and other animals now extinct and before the glaciers of the ice age were entirely melted off North American soil, now seems to be a fairly well-established part of American history.

The latest and best evidence that humans lived so long ago in what is now the United States is provided by discovery of a huge area in northern Colorado, where it is believed "ice-age man" camped and made weapons perhaps as much as 20,000 years ago.

Digging into the side of a cliff, Dr. Frank H. H. Roberts Jr., of the Smithsonian Institution, has uncovered about 30 stone dart points an inch and a half long of a special type that previously have been found buried with the bones of extinct animals, indicating they were used to hunt these animals.

These are known as the "Folsom projects" because they were first found.

indicating they were used to hunt these animals.

These are known as the "Folsom points" because they were first found near Folsom, N. M. Later they were found scattered over most of the United States. Now Dr. Roberts has found a place where this type of data points actually was manufactured. He believes it is conclusive evidence that they were made by an ancient race and were not buried with extinct animals by pure accident. On the campaite of what is believed to be "ice-age man" in a quarry of flint used for making the points, and flakes of flint chipped away in the process of making the points by these ancient hunters.

Mrs. J. A. MacMillan entertained at miscellaneous shower on Monday evening at the Community Club in Avondale Estates, as a complimentary gesture to Miss Mozelle Horton, a charming bride-elect, whose marriage to Maynard Young takes place on December 26. In the reception rooms where guests were received by the hostess and honor guest, the decorations were suggestive of the holiday season. Silver vases held red carna-tions, stately palms banked the corners and formed a background for the receiving party.

In the dining room where a buffet supper was served, the table was overlaid with an imported lace cloth, and pink carnations and calla lilies filled a silver epergue. Silver candelabraheld tall white tapers, and were tied with silver ribbons. THE MAKING OF MUSIC.
VII—Beginning of the Piano..
In large part, the piano grew out

In large part, the piano grew out of the harp.

The harp was played by plucking the strings, with the fingers or with the "plectrum," a little instrument held in the hands. At length, a clever inventor found a way to pluck the strings of a harp by touching keys. The key was a lever, or moved a lever, which made the plectrum twitch a certain string of the harp. Since the strings were of different length, there was a different sound when each key was touched.

"virginal" three

The sound of the harpsichord has been called "weak and tinkling." Yet it was used by some of the great masters of music, among them Bach and Handel. One kind of harpsichord looked a good deal like a grand plane. There was also an oblong form, often called a "virginal." English girls and young woman were fond of playing on the oblong form, and this may explain the name.

Queen Elizabeth and Mary, queen of Scotz, played on virginals. The instrument used by Elizabeth has been saved. It is not large, and the total weight is only 24 pounds; but it has 50 keys. The cedar case is covered with red velvet, and lined with yellow silk. Thirty of the keys are composed of ebony wood, and are tipped with gold. The rest of the keys are inlaid with silver, ivory and bits of wood.

Another early piano, of a sort, was the "clavichord." It had a keyboard and a set of strings. The name means "key-string."

The modern piano has little felt-covered "hammers" which strike against the strings. We shall have more to say about these in our next

Uncle Ray

An early type of piano was called a "harpsichord." It was invented more than 500 years ago. A harplike instrument was placed in a twitched when the player pressed the keys. Quills taken from crow-feathers did the actual "twitching," as a rule.

By FREDERICK GARDNER. NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(#)—A gleam of speculative interest in silver shares and a few specialties brightened the stock market somewhat today but failed to arrest a drifting decline in the general list.

Most markets reflected little more than a disposition to await develop-ments. Bonds were a bit irregular after their recent advance and leading odities moved narrowly. Further expansion in steel opera-tions strengthened the general impres-sion that business slowly was making its way to recovery. Favorable trade news, however, was received apatheti-cally.

Turnover in the stock exchange de-clined to $49,417 shares compared with more than a million Friday. Silver Share Gain.

Silver Share Gain.

A study forecasting higher silver prices, predicted chiefly on the assumption the United States would continue to buy the metal in the world market, attracted notice in speculative quarters. U. S. Smelting ran up more than three points.

Dividend hopes and investment demand for income-yielding securities directed buying into scattered preferred and better-grade common shares.

American Can bettered its previous 1934 peak by a point but finished only fractionally higher at 107.

J. I. Case preferred, Caterpillar Tractor, American Business Machines, McLellan Stores. Liquid Carbonic, J. C. Penney and Union Tank contributed gains of 1 to 2 points.

Stocks Sag.

In contrast U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Radio B, Montgomery Ward, du Pont and other prominent shares sagged.

Ward, du Pont and other prominent shares sagged.

The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 stocks dipped four-tenths of a point to 74.3, the fourth consecutive session of decline.

Among commodities, wheat showed a net loss of 1-8 to 1-2 a cent a bushel. Only minor changes were recorded in corn. Cotton futures in New York were unchanged to 25 cents a baie higher at the finish.

Steel news dominated the industrial sector. The American Iron & Steel Institute estimated the operating rate this week at 32.7 per cent of capacity against 28.8 a week ago and 31.5 a year ago.

Motor manufacturers were reported to be taking more steel for 1935 production schedules.

A sharp decline in Italian bonds directed attention to Italy's measures to safeguard its gold supply and to the Balkan dispute, but foreign exchanges were not appreciably disturbed.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

PENNER & BEANE—Despite lack of encouraging developments abroad we think conditions strong enough to warrant wheat purchases on small recessions. We also believe the shortage in the corn crop will be more apparent from now on.

tered specialties displayed firmness. Trading was comparatively active.

Quotations were fairly steady at the opening but a dribble of selling appeared later.

Chesebrough Corporation extended its recent advance by 2 points, touching a new high for abe year at 150.

Directors of Singer Manufacturing declared a $2.50 extra dividend along with the regular $1.50 quartery. This equaled the distribution in the previous quarter. The stock moved up 41-2 points at one time, but was off a fraction on a small amount of trading near the close.

American Cities Power & Light, Greyhound Corporation, Mead Johnson and Sérwin-Williams gained around a point each. Losses of similar proportions appeared in Lake Shore, Montgomery Ward A, and Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

American Cyanamid B, Electric Bond & Share, Hiram Walker, Wright Hargreaves and International Petroleum ended virtually unchanged. Swift Internacional and Distiller Corporation-Seagrams were fractionally lower. Transfers approximated 221,000 shares compared with 216,000 last Friday.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 .- UP)-Trading in cotton was quiet today and range of 5 to 10 points closing steady, net unchanged to 5 points higher.

There was some selling of months ut the opening and again toward the close, which was supposed to be against operations in producers pool cotton or certificates. December ished at the best prices of the day, while later months were 2 to 4 points off from the top.

The showing of the final crop figures of the department of agriculture appeared to have been quite fully digested during Saturday's trading as it had little influence today. Exports today 34,864 making 2,133,- 736 so far this season. Port receipts 17,092. United States port stocks 3.122.058 The early Liverpool cables reported featureless market there with hedg-ing and Bombay selling absorbed by the trade. According to the New York Exchange service prospects for consumption of American cotton abroad have improved slightly during recent weeks, improved slightly during recent weeks, owing to the firmer prices of foreign growths in relation to American, although Indian cotton is still selling at a comparatively low price.

There were reports of a slightly easier spot basis in some quarters, but local traders found no evidence of increased selling pressure from the south in the local market.

Political advices from Geneva were considered rather more encouraging.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
HOLDS IN NARROW RANGE
NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(A)—
The cotton market was rather quiet today and prices fluctuated within a narrow range but were generally steady supported by steadiness in stocks and by the general belief that the farmers vote of December 14 will be in favor of continuance of the Bankhead law.
After opening unchanged to 3 points up prices eased off 3 to 5 points during the morning but recovered the loss during the afternoon on shorts covering and firmer stocks. The market closed steady with prices net unchanged to 1 point down for the day.
The market opened steady and Liverpool cables came in about as due.
Private cables stated that there was hedge selling and selling by Bombay in Liverpool which was met by trade sh you. She is trying to save you from the worst punishment that a woman can endure—being married to a drunkard. If she hasn't convinced you that this is true suppose you talk to some of your friends who have married men that drink excessively, ask them if they had it to do over again what sort of decision they would make. With one accord they will answer. "Don't do it." There is no security in marriage when the man is addicted to drink. There is no guarantee that you will have food to eat or clothes to wear. There is no peace day or night, for you never known when he is coming home, either weeping with self-nity or fighting mad and abusive. There is never any talling what he will do to mortify yon before people and to make you wish you were dead. When you plan to go out with friends and have a pleasant evening he may be in such a condition that you are ashamed to take him and afraid to leave him. Or he may go out with you cold sober to a party, take too much to drink and humiliate you by behaving like a clown and a buffoon. He may fail to come home some night and wild with fear for his safety, you get on the ohome and try to trace him, never knowing where you may find him and with whom."

These are some of the warnings that the wives of drinking men will give you. But you won't listen to them or to your mother. You will bolt ahead and marry him and maybe you can be the means of his reform—the chances are slim that you can be. Far better for you to tell him now that unless he is willing to stop drinking and prove over a probationary period that he has stopped, you won't sign away your life's happiness. For this is what such a marriage amounts to. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

John de T. Lawrence, widely known Atlantan, died late Monday night at his residence at 130 Montgomery Ferry drive, N. E., following an ex-tended illness.

a steady to firm tone in today's bond market, but secondary issues and foreign obligations developed a high degree of irregularity.

The trading volume was a little under that of the last full session Friday, transfers totaling $11,639,000, par value. The Standard Statistics Company average for 60 domestic corporation bonds managed to edge up one-tenth of a point to 86.2.

A sharp break in Italian dollar loans unsettiled the foreign section. The drop in the Italian group was attributed partly to the latest governmental order at Rome impounding foreign assets of nationals as a means of preserving the kingdom's gold holdings and to nervousness over the Balkan situation.

PowerConsumers Lead Utilities in Investment

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.-(P)-WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—
The consumer of electricity was said tonight by Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the federal power commission, to have more money invested in utilization equipment than do the power companies in production and distribution facilities.

McNinch promised there would be no retreat in the administration's power policy.

mower policy.

McNinch said figures had been drawn up to show that the utilities at the end of last year had $12,000,000,000 invested in equipment to supply electricity and the consumers owned $13,200,000,000 of appliances and consuming equipment.

owned $13,200,000,000 of appliances and consuming equipment.
"And every dollar of this consumer investment represents actual money paid for this equipment," he said.
"No such assumption can safely be made as to the claimed investment of the utility companies as we do not know what part represents money and how much represents water."

Britons Get Nobel Peace Awards, Three Americans Share in Prizes

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 10.—(P)—
While the world's most coveted prize for peace efforts was being awarded to two Britons in Oslo, Norway, to day, four Americans and one Italian were honored here as recipients of other Nobel prizes, donated by a man who made his fortune in munitions manufacture.

The 1934 Nobel peace prize was awarded to Arthur Henderson, president of the world disarmament conference, in Oslo, where he will deliver tomorrow the official Nobel prize lecture at Oslo University in acknowledgement of the award.

The day when hopes for the disarmament conference cease will be a said day for the whole world," he said today.

The deferred award of the 1933 Nobel peace prize was made to Sir Nobel peace prize was made to Sir Norman Angell, British author and lecturer, who has spent much time in the United States. Of him it was said during the ceremony of awarding the prize:

"Few if any in our time have done more to remove the wrong conception that war benefits anyone. He still is busy in work dispelling the mist which hampers a clear rise, because the prize work in the treatment of anemic work in the

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Good news flowed into Wall Street from all directions today and a substantial rise in stocks was prevented only by profit-taking attracted by last week's advance.

At that, special groups showed much strength and the stock list was a whole was irregularly shiper at the close. Sentiment was cheerful and the market had a firm background, based chiefly on:

1. The magasine Steel report that steel works scrap prices had one of the aharpest rises since the war last week, accompanied by a 2-point advance to 30 per cent in steel works operations.

2. Further progress toward amicable settlement of the Yuogslavian-tungarian dispute, a serious threat to European peace.

3. More extra and increased dividend distributions.

4. Signs that Christmas stockings this year will be more heavily laden than in four years.

pared with October, which was in contrast with a sharp decline in that month a year ago.

BIGGER DIVIDENDS SEEN.

Expectations of bigger dividends were responsible for some active buying in at least two stocks, American Can and United States Smelting, the former touching 108.3-4 and closing at 107, up 1-2, and the latter finishing at 125.1-2, up 3.1-8, after hitting a high of 126.7-8.

A significant development of the day was a report by many brokers that some of their customers who have high buying orders "under the market" have raised their bids. Some, it was said, have been buying "at the market" have raised their bids. Some, it was said, have been buying "at the market" have raised their bids. Some, it was said, have been buying "at the market."

Good performances were recorded by airplane and motor stocks. Utilists made a little progress on the upside on reported "long-pull" buying. Rails, in which a growing buying interest has been moted in recent sessions, steadied late in the session after an early period of irregularity.

Killing Play.

Judging from the bridge situation in the New York clubs, the depression must be over, for a large proportion of part score hands are being optimistically bid to game and not a few hands which should be played at game are being bid to slam contracts. Ferry drive, N. E., following an extended illness.

A native of Marietta, he came to Atlanta and founded and operated the Lawrence Chemical Company for many years. He was retired.

Mr. Lawrence was active in St. Luke's Episcopal church, and he was the brother of the late Colonel R. de T. Lawrence, of Marietta.

He is survived by his wife; four daughters, Mrs. J. C. Crankshaw Jr., Miss Marguerite, Miss Mary, and Miss Belle Lawrence, of Atlanta; and a grandson, John Lawrence Crankshaw. of Atlanta. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Brandon-Bond-Condon. The fault in reaching this slam

The fault in reaching this slam of course was almost entirely that of the South player. Over two clubs South should not have forced with three hearts but should have bid four spades, at which point the bidding would probably have died. South's portimistic bidding, particularly in view of the void in his partner's suit, is hard to account for.

At any rate, South found himself at a six-spade contract and West made the best possible opening, the spade 10. South saw that his contract could be fulfilled if the diamond finesse worked, as with two entries in dummy the clubs could be set up no matter who had the ace. Thus a heart finesse and break did not seem to be necessary. This line of play would have worked had not the West player arisen magnificently to the occasion.

DOUGLAS, Iale of Man, Dec. 10.—
Kaye Don, famous British speed driver, was released today after serving 10 weeks and two days of a four months' sentence for manalaughter growing from the death of his mechanic in a wreck on a trial auto spin.

He was met by a group of friends and immediately boarded a ship for Liverpool.

Ill health, it was stated unofficially, was the reason for Don's early release. With time off for good behavior, his term would have ended January 6.

. . . Perhaps Rhonda Terry regretted that she had not been killed by the lion as she fought new to escape the clutches of the great beast thing that held her; but she was helpless in the grasp of those giant muscles. The creature lifted her up easily and tucked her under one arm. "Be quiet," it said, "or I'll wring your neck." The girl, shocked by the incredible fact that these beasts spoke English, was silent. "You had better not," the other cautioned. "The Maker will be angry if you do not bring her to him unharmed. He has been hoping for such a she as this one."

When Mary Was Thirty-Five She Discovered That Her Career ... Was No Substitute for Love. BY MADELINE SMITH.

Mary Stevens lay in bed in the hos-pital room, eyeing with indignant dis-like the vase of yellow roses on the table beside her. "Pale, anemie looking things," she thought, "if I hadn't had a good rea-son for buying you I'd call the nurse right now to throw you out!" The flowers smiled blandly on. "Never mind," thought Mary.

I have never had higher regard for any man that I knew so with violators of the game laws, and was a splendid gentleman." What was there left to interest her, Mary wondered? For 35 years she had been a machine, scorning marriage for success in her legal ca-reer. And her awakening had come too late.

She wasn't a factory! She wasn't dispassionate or mechanical, she was a woman! And she hidn't want success any more. She wanted some one to love, and a little apartment, and babies.

cess any more. She wanted some one to love, and a little apartment, and babies.

During the weeks in the hospital Mary had grown increasingly apathetic. Her only stimulus came from the frequent visits of the handsome doctor. Foolish that she should be so attracted to him, she told herself, but then she would probably have felt the same toward any other eligible man, She wanted a husband, and Doctor Scott was the right type. What matter if he was already married? He would—he must love her! She could make him love her, if he would only pay something besides professional attention to her.

His dislike of flowers in hospital rooms was perhaps the most prominent of all his eccentricities. That dislike was Mary's only hope of attracting his attention to herself, for his impersonal bedside manner was as notorious as he was famous.

THE BREAK OF DAY

He climbed up and stood in the middle of his No. 12 shoes and told the assembled coaches that in his judgment Mr. William Alexander, of Georgia Tech, had done the best coaching job of the year.

"He early encountered defeat and his team was not ab win any games after the first one," said Mr. Stegeman, "yet in every game their morale and fighting spirit seemed to in-crease with defeat and they closed out the season as one of the best teams in the conference. It took great coaching to do

The manner in which the Georgia Tech team follows and fights its battles for W. A. Alexander is really remarkable. In the past two seasons they have won few games yet no one ever signs up the Jackets from the Flats as a rest game. And should the day ever come when he gets some real material, and plenty of it, he will show the boys something. Meanwhile he remains unsurpassed for inspiring a football team by his own personality and without keying up speeches. THOMAS AND HIS SCOUTS.

Harold (Red) Drew did most of the scouting for Frank Thomas' undefeated and untied football team this past fall.

The manner of scouting and the manner of imparting it is of interest. The Alabama coaches met each Sunday afternoon at Thomas' home. There they received from Drew the scouting reports. The reports themselves are divided into sections. They are concerned first with the offense and then with the defense,

And then with personalities and, shall we say, the idiosyncrasies of the players? This means various things. There may be a give-away motion before a pass. Or perhaps a tell-tale move-ment of the hand or foot before a certain type play.

The scout determines just how a kicker or passer acts under essure of being rushed. Because the best defense against a pass is to rush the passer like fury and keep him off balance.

All these things are gone into thoroughly. The scout must see them.

In this day of the forward pass, one of the most important duties of the scout is to determine the pass defense. The ofense then may seek to find some opening in it, some weakness. The regular defense for running game, whether the defense employs a six-man line; when and where the team goes into a box defense or a diamond defense—all these things are part and parcel of what a scout must

In addition he must diagram the plays. Quite a tidy job, that. You've heard of how busy the onearmed paperhanger was at his work? Well, the football scout, who can really scout, is even busier.

THE OFFICIALS REPLY.

Football officials, in replying to criticism, told-coaches at the southern meeting last week, that they, the coaches, did not know the rules. This, it seems, was the defense and an admission that the officials did not know them well. The defense should not rest with that as extenuating circumstances. The coach should know the rules, of course. But the fact that he doesn't does not excuse the official, whose business it is to know the rules, from so doing.

The facts are that the season just ended saw many obvious errors on cases where the rules are not technical. There were too many officials who were too slow to cover their part of the game. There were too many who were obviously dodging the hard ones. Some of the better-known and more capable officials admitted this fact.

It is true the football rules are complex. But it is also

It is true the football rules are complex. But it is also true there are four officials to watch them, not just one. Four officials, if fast enough and if versed in the rules, should cover one little football game despite the complexity of the rules.

The defense that coaches don't know the rules doesn't apply to the case at all. They are hired to coach, the officials are paid to officiate which means knowing and applying the rules.

There are many capable officials. Criticism is directed not at them but at those who are too slow and too lacking in courage to call what they see. The officials' association knows these men. The action is left up to the association.

Members of the home office who altended the meeting were R. D. Kleim, tice president and director of sales. Lowell Weicker, director of the company; Lauren Ashe, head of the professional service department, and W. Henry Brown, field supervisor.

Mr. Cornell stated that he was impressed with the general business outlook here.

"During the year 1935, the E. R. Squibb Company will conduct the largest advertising campaign in the history of the company," he said. "This campaign is. In the opinion of the Geyer-Cornell agency, will be of immeasurable value to the chain of retail draggists all over the country."

Mr. Weicker pointed out that the promotion plan would involve only household necessities and products, because the company does not believe in self-medication. "No single product requiring professional prescriptions or services will be included in the prosessed which includes distribution, which includes distribution through selected wholesalers.

"The retailer," Mr. Weicker said. "The statement cited police department records to show that drunkenness had increased the first sixteen months beer was openly sold in Atlanta over the previous sixteen months beer was openly sold in Atlanta over the previous sixteen months, and that arrests for drunk and disorderly and drunk and reckless driving also had increased. The pastors agreed that "to follow such a proposal to establish a city-operated liquor store in Atlanta as with side deprication of sensible citizens."
